Appomattox Has Low Moving Rate

Soil Testing Needed Here

Appomattox County farmers should have their soil tested before top dressing pastures this fall, and now is the time to take he soil samples, says County Agent, Jim Smith.
Highly proucitve pasture should receive regular topdressings of fertiliser in late fall, winter, or early spring. However, before the fertilizer can be applied, you must decide what kin an amount of fertilizer to apply. Smith reports that George Hawkins, agronomist at Virginia Polytechnic Insitute, says that he best way to find answers to the two questions, "What kind?" and "How much?" fertilizer to apply is to have your soil tested.
Remember that the soil sample must represent the area to be fertilized if it is to be any good. When sampling a field, Hawkins recomends hat the field should first be divided into uniform soil areas. If there are marked differences in slope, erosion, or internal drainage of the soil, these areas should be sampled separately. Also, if certain areas of the field have been limed, fertilized, or managed differently in the past, they should be sampled separately.
When taking the samples, be sure to take enough borings or sub-samples from each area to represent it. A minimum of about three borings per acre, scattered at random over the area to be sampled, should be taken, advises Hawkins.

Homecoming

Homecoming Day will be observed at Mt. Comfort Methodist Church in Appomattox County on Sunday, August 5.
Dr. Edgar A. Potts, District Superintendent of Lynchburgg, will speak the 11 o'clock service. Picnic lunch will be served at noon, and a program of special music is planned for the afternoon services.
Revival services will bygin Sunday evening and continue each night through Friday. The Rev. Raymond L. Moore, Sr. will be the guest evangelist.
All former pastors, members and friends are invited to attend.
The Rev. W. L. Ayres is pastor of Mt. Comfort.

Welding Work

Charlotte C. H., July 23 - Instructors of vocational agriculture in Appomattox, Buckingham, Charlotte, Cumberland and Mecklenburg counties will attend a conference on arc welding in the Randolph-Henry High School July 26-27.

Garden Work

Fishingg or swinging in a hammock are pleasant occupations during sultry summer days. But time can be more profitably spent in the vegetable garden, suggests F. H Scott assistant horticulturist at Virginia Polytechnic Insitue.
Many vegeables can still be planted which, added to earlier plantings, will prouce an abundant fall garden.
Chook on the average first freezing date in your area, and be guided by tese rules:
Eighty to 85 days before the first freeze you sow seeds of beets, chard, and butterhead lettuce.
Seventy to 75 ays before the first freeze you can sow bush snap beans such as Topcrop or Tender Pod, leaf lettuce such as Salad Bowl, Purple Top White globe turnips, Yates Kale, and either Virginia Savoy or Long Standing Bloodwin spinach.
Just 50 to 60 days before the first freeze you can plant turnip eaiqi scod of a variety such as Seven Top. Upland cress, variously known as dryland cress, creasy salad or creasy greens, also can be planted then.
...S cott says other rules also apply if you want a gprodd fall garden. Plant in a well-prepared seedbed, keep the weeds down, fertilizer properly, and control pests. County agents can give additional details.

Family Reunion

Descendentants of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Morris will have a family reunion at Wooldridge Waynide Park on Sunday, August 12th. Come and bring picnic basket.

Local Residents "Stay Put"
(Special to The Times-Virginian)
New York, July 23.- Residents of Appomattox County stay put longer than people do in most parts of the United States.
Because of their tendency to live in the same location for more years than is average, they are considered less transient than the majority of Americans.
The findings are from a report issued by the Department of Commerce, following a study it made of data gathered in connection with the 1960 census.
It shows that 4,946 residents of Appomattox County were in the same houses they had been living in five years before. This is exclusive of children under the age of five who have not yet had time to be very mobile.
Some 3,214 local people did move during the five-year period, the figures show. Of these 2,176 merely changed locations within their own county. Another 1,038 came in from others areas to take up local residence.
How many might have left, on the other hand, to live elsewhere, is not indicated.
What it boils down to is that only 39 out of every100 people in Appomattox County were living in different houses in 1960 than they had occupied in 1955.
This mobility rate, 39 percent, was lower than the rate reported for United States as a whole. Nationally 47 percent changed residence in the five-year period.
The rate given for the South Atlantic States is 50 percent and, for the Estate of Virginia, 49 percent.
Various factors hrd people so move. Some of them are economic. If their source of livelhood dries up or their income drops and is no longer sufficient for their needs, they go elsewhere in search of work. Or a better opportunity may present itself in another neighborhood. So they move.
Sometimes the change is due to an increase or decease in the size of the family, making a switch to other quarters desirable.
All in all, it is a rare individual who lives in the same house all his life.
In Appomattox County, according to the report, only 582 people, 12 percent of the over-five population, still live in the houses in which they were born.
